1 Using Volfoni Loader

1.1 Set device in update mode

Some devices need a procedure to turn it in update mode (also called bootloader mode). Most of time, you need to push a button and then turn on device / plug it to USB.

Procedure change for each product. To see procedure for your device, go on “Help” menu and then “How to switch the product in update mode?”.

This menu appears only if PC Loader didn't find a device.

1.2 Connect a device

On each Volfoni product, you have an USB Micro-B connector; you need to connect it with an adapted wire to your computer.

If PC Loader recognized your product, you will see some information about your device like a photo, the serial number or the software version installed on it.

If you don't see information about your device when connected, it's because PC Loader didn't recognize it. Verify that link between computer and device is good and that you are in update mode.

1.4 Return to the previous version

There is an option to return at the last version installed on the device (for example if it was better than the new one), to do that go on the “Edit” menu and select “Return to last version”. This option is enabled only if you did an update of this device in the past with the same computer.
